TOO FAT

Even the movie stars are having their troubles in this day and age. Agnes Ayres has sued a producer for breach of contract and Mr. Producer has come back with a statement that Agnes did not live up to her contract in that she permitted herself to get too fat. Now some poor judge will entertain a headache trying to figure out just what "too fat" is.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW

A jury in Redding has found a man guilty of slaying his mother-in-law and a judge has just sentenced the man to a prison term. From the frying pan into the fire. Oh well.

TIA JUANA

The Tia Juana dives are to be cleaned up. "Mancha" San Diego and the entire border has arisen in arms over the fate of two girls and their parents, who committed suicide over the shame of the tragedy. Not in defense of the dives, but how did it happen that the father permitted his daughters to drink in a public place of the nature of the dive in which they are said to have taken the doped drink?

Tia Juana will never clean out the dives. The United States Government will have to take the matter up with the Mexican government if any action is expected.

The millions that are coined daily on the border in the traffic liquor now that the United States has a prohibition law will always be a barrier to cleaning out the mess in the border town.

AIR SERVICE

One round the world flyer of the United States Army has resigned and another is said to be preparing to submit his resignation. The fact that these two men are leaving the army is given wide publicity, because they are well-known. A list of the officers who have resigned from the United States Air Force since the "Billy Mitchell" case would make interesting reading especially if the reason for their resignations were given.

TRADE AT HOME

We have a letter from a local merchant asking us to write an item in this column on trading at home. The stationery upon which the letter is written after a little inspection revealed that it had been sold by a mail order house which sells stationery at so much per thousand with the necessary printing. Some one ought to offer a prize for a suggestion as to what to do with this bird.

COUNTLESS VERA TO BE DEPORTED IS ORDER FROM SEC. OF LABOR

Avalanche of Protests Against Deportation Received by Officials

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Vera Countess Cathcart, must go back, holding her to be guilty of action involving "Moral Turpitude" under the provisions of the immigration laws Secretary of Labor James J. Davis tonight ordered that she be deported to the country from whence she came.

The decision was made as an avalanche of protests from Senators and Representatives and from hundreds of women throughout the country descended upon the immigration bureau.

Vera admitted her "crime, hundreds before her have been deported for similar offenses. The law is mandatory. It must be applied to all. That was the gist of the decision made by the Secretary of Labor after forty-eight hours of consideration of the most spectacular case in the annals of the immigration law.

He announced his finding and then dashed for a train for Florida for a vacation.

Secretary Davis' decision excluding the Countess was in full as follows:

"The Department of Labor has affirmed, on appeal, the excluding decision of the Ellis Island board of special inquiry in the case of Vera E. Cathcart.

"This action is based on that part of section 3 of the Immigration act of February 20, 1917, known as the general immigration law, which provides in part as follows: 'That the following (Continued on page 5)

SKOW INJURED IN CAR CRASH

S. P. Skow of the Dairy Farm Creamery was slightly injured last night when a car that he was driving collided with a car operated by Mrs. Charles Gowney of 583 Fifth street, in front of the Pullman gates, Pullman avenue. Skow was treated for a cut in the back of the head by Dr. C. Carpenter. His wound is not serious. A small boy who was riding with Mrs. Gowney was treated at the Emergency hospital for scratches and bruises.

Mrs. Gowney's car was badly damaged.

In the second accident of the night a car driven by W. J. La Franz, of Mira Vista, collided with a car driven by Fred Husing of the Seventh street garage at Thirty-sixth street and Macdonald avenue. The cars were slightly damaged and none of the occupants were injured.

Motorman In Wreck That Cost Eleven Lives On Oakland Pier Admits He "Couldn't Stop Train"

The explanation of the wreck that cost the lives of eleven people and injured forty when the Key System Sacramento Short-line train crashed at the Oakland Mole on December 4, 1924 was wrung from the lips of motorman Verne C. Brubecker yesterday after a period of silence of over one year's duration. Brubecker has steadily declined to testify at the coroner's inquest or to the Interstate Commerce investigation.

Yesterday he admitted that he "couldn't stop."

This dramatic statement came from Brubecker in the suit of one of the victims, Mrs. Olga Howe, of San Francisco who lost both legs in the accident. Brubecker admitted that he was traveling 45 miles an hour as he emerged from the subway upon the pier. E. E. Thornton, superintendent of the Key System, Brubecker declared, had given him orders to "speed up" and "stop

3 Sisters Seek Share Of Clark Millions As Daughters of Senator

Mrs. Alma Hines of Orrick, Mo., pictured above, is one of three sisters who assert they are the daughters of the late Senator William A. Clark of Montana, through their attorney, they declare that Senator Clark married their mother in the early eighties and deserted her some ten years later. They claim a share in the $75,000,000 Clark estate.

BRIBE CHARGES ARE HURLED IN LIQUOR TRIAL

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—In the trial of J. Herbert Madden, mayor of Sausalito, Joseph Parente and seven others, secrets of the inner workings of the rum runners of the Golden Gate were laid in Federal Judge John S. Partridge's court today. Parents and the others are on a charge of liquor conspiracy.

Testimony made by Edward Magruder, former skipper on the launch Quantomac, shows that he sailed his craft out to the Steamer Principio for a load of liquor under the direction of Parente. Also that before leaving the steamer, he asked Parente for $2000, which was to be used to bribe the Coast Guard in case of trouble. Magruder states that Parente did not give him the money, but after he had landed 3240 cases of beer and champagne on the Oakland waterfront, he was given $1000 to "see him through the night." This occurred in August, 1924.

Magruder is now employed by the Government as an investigator for H. S. Creighton, special custom agent, according to the defense attorneys. As a reward for information given the government, Magruder was given this position. Further testimony revealed the fact that Magruder had landed some of the liquor shipment which (Continued on page 5)

FRENCH SENATE IN FIGHT OVER PASSAGE OF A NEW TAX LAW

Violation of Constitution Is Charged by Enemies of New Measure

(By Universal Service)
PARIS, Feb. 17.—Violation of the French constitution was risked by Premier Briand this afternoon when he appealed to the Senate over the head of the chamber to vote ready cash to meet the government's desperate financial budget situation.

The premier's move may bring open warfare between the Chamber Cartel leaders and the Upper House.

The radicals have not forgiven the Senate for overthrowing Premier Herriot and the left wing Cartelists vigorously advocate abolishing the Senate, which they allege "does not represent the people."

The 1875 constitution forbids the Senate to initiate financial legislation. The tax vote dodging chamber, after the premier's pleas, threats and ultimatums, sent the 1926 budget to the chamber with a 2,400,000,000 franc deficit.

Premier Briand this afternoon asks the Senate Finance commission to vote the laws which the chamber rejected, promising he will then return these laws to the chamber and secure their passage. He argues that any law once introduced in the chamber, even if unanimously rejected can be taken up by the Senate.

After hearing Premier Briand and Finance Minister Boumer, this afternoon, the Senate Finance commission agrees to examine the government's proposals.

Joseph Caillaux appealed to the commission not to shrink the duty in which the chamber had failed.

The Chamber Cartel leaders tonight declare it will be a violation of the constitution if the Senate passes tax laws which the chamber rejected, and threaten a relentless battle to prevent the Upper House from usurping the functions of the chamber.

Building to Be Moved Here From Berkeley Site

R. W. Dorms will move his cottage from Berkeley to Richmond, according to a permit granted yesterday by city building inspector, E. E. Grow.

The house will be moved to Thirteenth street, between Virginia and Maine avenues. The cost of the work will be $1250. A. Gray will be in charge.

Another permit was granted yesterday to T. D. Gleim, for the construction of a private double garage at Second street between Chanslor and Bissell avenues. The cost of the work will be about $200. A. Gray will construct the building.

Two Inquests Are Held by Coroner

Accidental drowning and shock and hemorrhage, due to a shot inflicted during an attack of temporary insanity were verdicts returned by the coroner's jury at the inquest of the deaths of E. C. Haney and Antonio Rodriguez at Antioch last night.

Haney was drowned at Antioch on February 10, when he fell from a gang plank into the bay. He was drowned before rescue could reach him.

Rodriguez committed suicide a few days ago by shooting himself through the heart.

Coroner C. F. Donnelly was in charge on the inquests.

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 17.—Fourteen years imprisonment in the penal colony on Isla de la Muerte may be punishment decided upon for 4 of the 7 Mexicans accused of assaulting the two daughters of Thomas Pateet, whose entire family committed suicide in San Diego because of the daughters' shame.

This information came from Tia Juana today and was admitted by Chondos Bush, Los Angeles attorney, who is counsel for Luis Amador, proprietor of the saloon where the Pateet girls were given drugged liquor.

Judge S. Urias, who has been considering evidence in the case for more than two days, reached his verdict this morning. It is (Continued on page 8)

Dan Cupid has New List to Aid His Operations

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 17.—A California aid bureau for Dan Cupid has been organized to supply the lovelorn swains of the Pacific slope and other interested parties with the names of all rich widows in San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Piedmont and other cities of the bay district.

Existence of the so-called "fortune hunters" handy list," issued under the title "Wealthy Widows of the Bay Cities," was announced today by the state corporation department which cares nothing for the matrimonial aspects of the directory but it is very much exercised about its possible financial aspects.

"Bogus stock" promoters and salesmen could use this list as well as Romeos," declared John L. Davis, secretary of the commission. "Wealthy Widows are herewith warned to be on their guard. This may be only a matrimonial aid list and then again it may be put to use as a 'Sucker List.'"

At any rate, the list is said to contain the names and addresses of 800 San Francisco bay district widows who are all well supplied with the coin of the realm. Corporation department officials said they have received reports that the list is being offered in mail circulars for $40.

U. S. ORDERS THE BORDER CLOSED AT 6

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—In an effort to root the vice conditions which culminated in the outraging of the Pateet girls and the subsequent death of the entire family, the United States government today ordered the Mexican border to Tia Juana to be closed at six o'clock every night.

Legal passage of the Border may now be made only between eight o'clock in the morning and six at night.

By closing it three hours earlier at night, the Government hopes to check the passage of "Excitement-Seeking" persons en route to the gambling and vice resorts and to establish a better protection for Americans against outrages.

The order was issued by the treasury department following protests made to Secretary of State Kellogg and General Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition, by Congressman Phil Swing in behalf of prominent religious organizations of Southern California.

Secretary Kellogg who asked to urge the Mexican government to establish a 50-mile zone along the border, in which the central government of Mexico would take responsibility for enforcement of law and order.

Swing said: "There is too much gold at stake in Tia Juana for the responsible authorities here to enforce the law. The American government should insist upon proper conditions that will not serve as a lure to citizens of this country for outrages across the line. The Mexican government should be asked to free the border of iniquitous vice resorts."

League Conference Is to Be Postponed

Naval Committee Advocates Funds For Air Service

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Aroused by the storm of criticism against inferior conditions in the nation's air defenses the House Naval Affairs committee today reported a bill carrying $93,378.00 for a five year building program to give the navy an air service "second to none."

Under this program new planes for the navy would be added each year until in 1921 there would be on hand one thousand planes of the most modern design.

Allowance for construction of two giant dirigibles each of 6 million cubic feet in capacity at an additional cost of eight million dollars was made.

Oldest American Dies At 111 Years

(By Universal Service)
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 17.—The oldest living American, Mrs. Louisa K. Thiers, died here today in her 111th year.

Day by day, bit by bit, this "grand old lady" became more feeble after she celebrated her last birthday, Oct. 2.

Until last summer her eyesight was good, her hearing perfect. She took an active interest in the every-day world.

To those who wished her to talk about the vanished yesterdays she always replied:

"My dears, it is of the tomorrows that we should think. That is before us, and in our making."

She died peacefully, in her sleep.

THIRTY-EIGHT BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Fifty are Still Missing as Rescue Parties Search Ruins For More Bodies

SEVEN RECOVERED ALIVE

Fire Breaking Out in Shattered Ruins Adds to Loss of Life Among The Injured

(By Universal Service)
BINGHAM, Utah, Feb. 17.—Rescue parties delving into the debris of an avalanche that swept down Bingham had recovered 38 bodies tonight. More than 50 others are missing and the total dead may exceed 75.

Under the glare of torches and hastily erected electric light the search of the ruins continued here tonight. Only 7 persons were recovered alive from the ruins of a hotel, two boarding houses and a score of miners' cabins that were caught in the avalanche.

Hope has been abandoned that any more will be brought out alive. Most of the victims were employees of the Utah Delaware Mines here. Fire that broke out among the shattered timbers caused the death of a number of victims. The body of an Austrian miner recovered tonight was burned beyond recognition. The injured are being cared for in the Bingham hospital by doctors and nurses rushed from Salt Lake.

A warning was given that, another avalanche threatens the valley and families living in the danger zones were ordered to leave their homes.

The snow almost completely blocked both ends of the canyon. It lay many feet deep, in great masses that crumbled and solidified under the feet of the rescue workers. Many of those who fought through the mass of waste endangered their lives to drag from death some trapped victim of the disaster.

Electric lights were strung over the wreckage by employees of the Utah Mining company and the work of search and rescue continued after darkness.

Many tons of snow will have to be moved before the wrecked homes can be thoroughly explored. Victims trapped in crumbled buildings will be able to get air to breathe through the loose snow, according to rescue workers and all not killed outright may be saved if reached in time.

PRODUCTION OF COAL STARTED

SCRANTON, P. A., Feb. 17.—Production of anthracite coal began tonight—after a five and a half months' lull in the mines—when thousands of miners entered the pit on the night shift and began loading fuel into the waiting cars.

Child Is Born With Its Heart On the Outside

KANSAS, CITY, Feb. 17.—Physicians tired from their rounds paused long enough tonight in the General Hospital here to view a baby born with its heart outside its body and still alive. Physicians say it is one of the strangest cases ever reported.

The heart functioning properly is in normal position and on the left side of the body. It is properly formed but instead of normal skin is covered by the pericardium the sac in which the heart usually rests.

According to physicians the baby will not live long. The mother, Mrs. Ida Bonds, is doing well. She is also the mother of a normal two year old girl.

NOW, MR. COPELAND!

The hard coal industry has solved its own squabble. Although it took a good deal of time and there was considerable economic waste in the controversy, the principle of business attending to its own laundry has been preserved in one of the major industrial crises our country has had in post-war times.

President Coolidge's stand against government interference is vindicated by the outcome of the coal strike. We know nothing out here of the equities involved in the quarrel nor of the gains and losses to the two sides in the settlement. The only thing the government might have done had it intervened would have been to speed up the final agreement, and that was always to be desired. But there was the great danger that instead of merely speeding up the issue, the government would have entangled the parties still more in their fuss.

The government is provided with a department of labor which has a peculiar duty to perform in industrial controversies, and we have no doubt that Secretary Davis—a very able cabinet member—was at all times doing what he could and should to ease the strain. He may have had some measurable part in the negotiations.

But the president, an executive with the power to appoint cabinets, had no need to be personally involved. Mr. Coolidge, with more confidence in the acumen and initiative of his cabinet members than some presidents have been able to entertain, was able to keep hands off and let the orderly processes work themselves out. Not even the wordy shouting of Senator Copeland, an illustrated magazine statesman from New York, was able to stir him up, although the gentleman from New York was able to convince those pious candidates in the upper house that something should be done.

THE SCOUT OATH

"On my honor I will do my best:
To do my duty to God and to my country, and to obey the scout law;

To help other people at all times;

To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

The mere statement of the scout oath is in itself an editorial on the subject. The pledge rests on the honor of the individual and not on coercion. On that free and independent basis the scout promises to reverence God, and allegiance to his country. In practicing the scout laws he daily trains himself in a code of living that will fit him for the highest type of citizenship. In assisting other people at all times he is emulating the great characters of history who by their unselfish labor and sacrifices have made possible our wonderful modern civilization, rights and comforts which we enjoy today. The scout, by living up to this pledge; is always in a position to exemplify the motto of scouting and the fundamental principle of success.

Perserverance is merely keeping on doing what you decided to do even after you decide that maybe you shouldn't.

Beginning with the next academic year, Harvard's tuition fees will be increased; but dear old Electra will continue to be the costliest of the colleges.—F. P. A. in New York World.

The Thirteen Original Colonies

You remember that there were thirteen colonies at the time of the great American Revolution. But they did not grow up all at once. It took more than a century to get them well under way, their boundary line settled and their government line settled.

The original thirteen states—for they began to call themselves states even before the first battle of the Revolution, were:

Virginia, the colony planted in honor of Elizabeth, the virgin queen of England, was at one time under the leadership of the well-known and gallant John Smith.

New York, was first settled by the Dutch, who came over under the auspices of the Dutch West India company. But they later surrendered to the formidable army of English. When the English came they gave the colony the name New York. The city had been known as New Amsterdam.

Connecticut, was first settled by the Dutch, who came over from New Netherlands, their holdings in New York territory. Later a trading post was established here by some people from Plymouth. And the Puritans made a permanent settlement in this colony.

It is thought that the Norwegians may have been the first to explore along the coast of Massachusetts. But the first real exploration was undertaken by vessels of Captain John Smith. The Pilgrims made this their home, and established a strong, liberal colony.

Rhode Island, was founded by refugees from Massachusetts and Connecticut. The first settlement was made by Roger Williams, a young man of extremely liberal views.

The Quaker, William Penn, came over to claim a large tract of land. The king insisted that this land be called Pennsylvania. Penn established friendly relations with the Indians already on the land and with the Indians. The colony grew rapidly. By 1776 Philadelphia was the largest city of the colonies.

First the Dutch overflowed in New Jersey and planted a colony. Then a party of English came over and established a new colony. North and South Carolina were original states of the union, having had as their first backwoodsmen who thought to make large plantations on which to raise silk and procure olive oil. INQUIRING MOTORIST

Asks Questions of Walter P. Chrysler
PRESIDENT
CHRYSLER CORPORATION

QUESTION: Do you think the automotive industry will ever reach a saturation point?

ANSWER: There is just as much of a chance of the automotive industry reaching a saturation point as there is the clothing industry. Just so long as it is impossible for manufacturers to produce cars which won't wear out, just so long as population increases and capacity to buy increases, just so long as motor car owners replace cars, just so long as world markets expand and new ones are created—just so long will the automotive industry continue to prosper.

QUESTION: How is production determined at an automobile factory?

ANSWER: By demand alone. Few manufacturers today require their dealers and distributors to take more cars than they can sell. Demand is determined by actual retail sales.

QUESTION: From your observation how many miles does the average car owner get out of his car in a year?

ANSWER: From five to ten thousand miles is what it used to be and now it is getting to be from ten to twenty thousand. People today get twice the mileage out of their cars that they used to and often in half the time.

The GOLDEN COCOON

by RUTH CROSS

Copyright, 1924, by Harper & Brothers
"The Golden Cocoon" with Helene Chadwick is a picturization of this novel by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Molly Shannon, State University student, heart-broken because she has been deserted by her fiancé, wanders aimlessly in the streets one night and finally enters a warily-furnished house in the slums. She is so disgusted with what she sees that she escapes as soon as possible. Gregory Cochran, a young man, is attracted to her and takes her into the home town, sees the forlorn-looking girl at the side of the tracks.

Several times she slipped and caught at the thorny shrubs which grew straggling out of the rocks. Twice she fell, but dragged herself up and stumbled on again.

When at last she reached the water's edge she collapsed in a nerveless heap, head between her knees. She did not move; indeed, she seemed not to breathe. The reaction from days and nights of unremitting tension set in now in good earnest. Exhaustion closed over her with that dead weight of ions and mountains.

"Have you quite made up your mind?"

Molly was doubtful at first whether the voice had not come out of her own brain—so quiet, so impersonal it was. But the owner of it stood less than six feet away, his back against a projection of rock, his arms folded calmly across his chest. How he had managed to make his way so noiselessly down the steep and slippery path was cause for wonder. He was anything but an ethereal person. At all events there he stood looking at Molly with eyes as impersonal and detached as his voice. The eyes did not question her right to do what she pleased. She could go into the water at once if she saw fit.

"I don't wish to interfere if you have fully made up your mind," the stranger went on quietly, his eyes still holding hers in a steady but courteously objective gaze. "Suitable is, I think, largely a personal matter—provided, of course, there are no serious obligations. But it seems to me one ought to be as nearly normal as possible when making such an important decision."

Cochran's mouth twisted humorously. "Glad your father hadn't heard."

"Greg, you know perfectly what I mean."

"My dear mother, I assure you I never had the slightest."

"No," she retorted tersely, "but she did."

"The imagination of overfond mothers is beyond anything."

"Really, though, Greg," she dismissed the Dilworths and Renfros and came to something more immediately pertinent—"this last excursion of your into democracy"

The other gave her a quick look as the negro butler appeared in the doorway. When they were alone again she pushed back her chair a trifle and interlarded slender, aristocratic fingers along the table edge. "Do you know, Greg, ever since you were a little boy you've been bringing home strays and waifs. A dog with a broken leg, a child you'd found crying in an alley. . . . If I'd kept them all, we could long have started a menagerie!"

"Mother," Cochran protested, "you're making me out quite a lot."

"At all events," she proceeded, "you're making me out quite a lot."

"Of course you have—you've been a tramp."

"For your sake, though, Greg—always for your sake. Personally I detest maimed, hurt, malformed things. They make me ill. I don't mind helping them, but I prefer to do it—well, anyway, at a sanitary distance."

As she saw he was about to interrupt, she lifted one white hand with its single thin worn gold circlet. "I'm not through with you yet, Greg. I've been reasonably patient about the rest, the dogs and cats and cetera. But—when you begin bringing home girls off the streets."

"Mother . . ."

"Or out of the river—it comes to the same thing. And catching your death of cold into the bargain."

"I told you there was an accident."

"Accident . . . ! It was characteristic that she did not depart in the smallest degree from her pleasant, perfectly modulated tone in order to express her scorn."

"Greg, you don't expect me to believe . . ."

clothing was drenched, and small puddles and rivulets marked his ascent from the river's edge. Once in the street he signaled to a cab—one of those moldy, moth-eaten vintures which hover by night over the festering spots of a city—put his inanimate burden into it and climbed in himself.

The driver was plainly bewildered at the address given. He asked it over three times before he finally mounted the box and shook the reins about his weary nag. Even then he had his doubts as to his fare's sobriety, for he kept turning at intervals and trying to peer down into the cab, the curtains of which were closely drawn.

CHAPTER XV

"Greg, had you heard about Susan Dilworth's astounding marriage?"

Cochran glanced over the top of the morning paper at his mother's handsome, erect, magnificent, beaming face. She was smiling at him, the silver coffee service.

Sarah Cochran repeated her question—with the omission of the adjective—and her son smiled his slow, luminous smile.

She made an impressive full stop while she poured his coffee. Then: "You remember that person they had out at the university last year—the one who was always making jokes?"

"Most of them," Molly was doubtful at first whether the voice had not come out of her own brain—so quiet, so impersonal it was. But the owner of it stood less than six feet away, his back against a projection of rock, his arms folded calmly across his chest. How he had managed to make his way so noiselessly down the steep and slippery path was cause for wonder. He was anything but an ethereal person. At all events there he stood looking at Molly with eyes as impersonal and detached as his voice. The eyes did not question her right to do what she pleased. She could go into the water at once if she saw fit.

Cochran was still smiling. He knew that his mother never forgot a name unless she wanted to. "Renfro," he suggested.

She nodded. "I said all along he was a fortune hunter, and I know you never cared for him."

Well, anyway, they're married—the day before yesterday!"

Cochran folded his paper and laid it carefully beside him. "I'm—Stephen Renfro, eh? Still?"

He objected mildly—"I don't know that we need brand him an adventurer. Sue's a pretty nice sort of girl."

The other party to the argument passed the matter at once, not affected by its logic. "From all accounts, it was quite an impromptu affair—no church wedding, no announcements—no trousseau, for aught I know. Her father had even heard of it until he saw it in the papers—fancy."

"She broke a piece of very dry toast shook a crumb or two into his plate with delicate precision and remained for some moments contemplatively silent. Finally, 'I think I'm glad,' she announced with her usual unequivocal decisiveness."

Cochran's mouth twisted humorously. "Glad your father hadn't heard."

"Greg, you know perfectly what I mean."

"My dear mother, I assure you I never had the slightest."

"No," she retorted tersely, "but she did."

"The imagination of overfond mothers is beyond anything."

"Really, though, Greg," she dismissed the Dilworths and Renfros and came to something more immediately pertinent—"this last excursion of your into democracy"

The other gave her a quick look as the negro butler appeared in the doorway. When they were alone again she pushed back her chair a trifle and interlarded slender, aristocratic fingers along the table edge. "Do you know, Greg, ever since you were a little boy you've been bringing home strays and waifs. A dog with a broken leg, a child you'd found crying in an alley. . . . "Mother," Cochran protested, "you're making me out quite a lot."

"At all events," she proceeded, "you're making me out quite a lot."

"Of course you have—you've been a tramp."

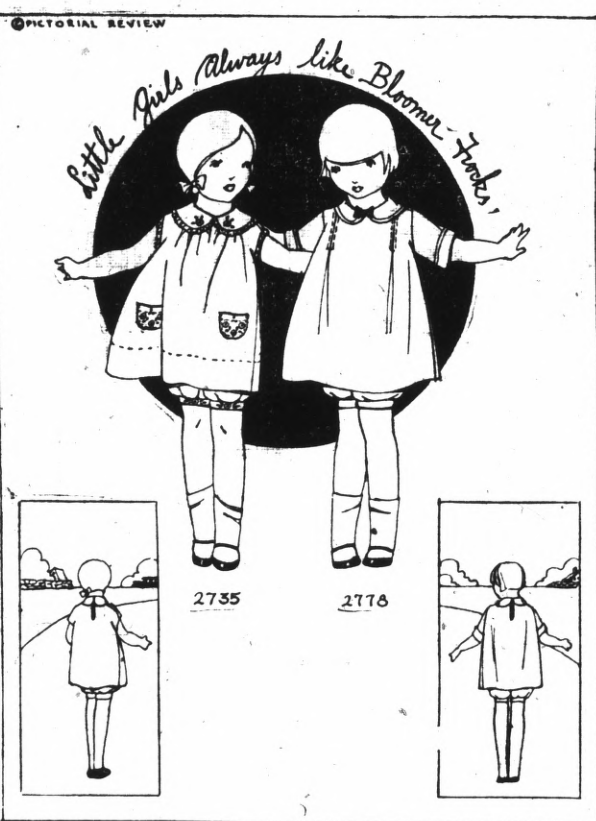

"For your sake, though, Greg—always for your sake. Personally I detest maimed, hurt, malformed things. They make me ill. I don't mind helping them, but I prefer to do it—well, anyway, at a sanitary distance."

As she saw he was about to interrupt, she lifted one white hand with its single thin worn gold circlet. "I'm not through with you yet, Greg. I've been reasonably patient about the rest, the dogs and cats and cetera. But—when you begin bringing home girls off the streets."

FRENCH FROCKS FOR WEE WOMEN

It is just as plain as anything that, to be smart, a frock for the small women of fashion must be of the dainty type. Embroidery or handwork, too, should figure prominently in the development of any design selected. The frock to the left has the embroidery included with the pattern, and may be developed in crepe, chambray, dimity, or gingham. Collar and short sleeves are finished with tiny plaited rills of self-material. Medium size requires 2 1/4 yards 36-inch material.

When taffeta wishes to present a semi-tailored appearance in a junior frock, it contents itself with the simplest of models. To the right is a dress that has an inverted plait on either shoulder, short sleeves and round collar. The bloomers are gathered at the lower edge and attached to a straight band of self-material. Medium size requires 2 1/4 yards 36-inch material.

First Model: Pictorial Review Printed Pattern No. 2735. Sizes, 2 to 6 years; 30 cents.
Second Model: Pictorial Review Printed Pattern No. 2776. Sizes, 4 to 12 years; 30 cents.

Mannish Tailleurs Return to Vogue In Spring Fashions

GERTRUDE OLMSTED M.C.M. PLAYER

The mannish tailleur for Spring is with us again, except that it is more mannish than ever. Severe simplicity is the keynote of the new silhouettes, many of which go to the extremes of introducing real mannish vests. Above is a very chic tailored costume of tan tweed which boasts a regular vest, a strictly tailored coat and a tight fitting skirt with an inverted pleat in front. With this costume Miss Olmsted wears a hat of tan velour and a four-in-hand tie.

At the left is a nobby tailored jumper frock of jersey which sports a Buster Brown collar and tie.

This two-piece frock shows the effectiveness of the longer blouse, a variation from the regular two-piece frock so popular the past few seasons. This is in keeping with the long coated double breasted "Prince of Wales" tailleur which the smart Parisian woman is seen wearing on the boulevards. The two-piece frock such as Miss Olmsted wears is practical as well as smart, affording as it does many opportunities for wearing different collars and cuffs with it.

"THE MYSTIC" IS PLEASING AT RICHMOND

Tod Browning, the most famous screen director of crook stories, has even outdone his marvelous "The Unholy Three" in his latest underworld picture "The Mystic," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now being shown at the Richmond Theatre.

"The Mystic" is a thrilling melodramatic expose of the machinations of fake mediums in league with hooded crooks who prey on grief-stricken people, hysterically seeking communication with dead relatives and friends. The director has carefully refrained from any reflection on religious bodies, believing in spirit communication but has built up a colorful tale founded on recent exposure of fake mediums and clairvoyants in California.

The story opens in Hungary, where a young American, crook, discovers a beautiful gypsy medium, whom he knows is a faker. Her work so charms him that he induces her to come to America and rob a rich American girl of a fortune in jewels and bonds. The love interest is found in the romance which develops between the crook and the gypsy.

Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle are seen at their best in the featured roles and are supported by a cast which includes Mitchell Lewis, Robert Oler, Stanton Heck, Gladys Hulette, David Torrence and Lew Witt Jennings.

"The Mystic," an original screen story by Tod Browning, was photographed by Ira Moran, and titled by Joseph Farnham, Cedric Gibbons and Hervey Lubbert were the art directors.

Other features on the same program include "Failure," a comedy adapted from O. Henry's story "Hypothesis of Failure," "Prizma," the screen magazine.

To Ask for Bids On Improvement Of Two Schools

W. T. Helms announced yesterday that bids for the wing at the Fairmont school and a wing at the Petes school will be asked for by the board of education of Richmond, in the next few days. Plans for the buildings were presented by James T. Nabbott, Richmond architect, at the board meeting which was held on Tuesday night. A few minor changes will be made in the plans before the bids are called for.

The plans for the two wings calls for six classrooms in each and the structures will conform to that of the existing buildings.

The construction at Fairmont will be of hollow tile while the Petes buildings will be of brick. Both wings will contain an assembly hall. Funds for the structures were raised at the bond election held last fall.

Final details of the plans for the new high school that will be erected in north Richmond from the funds voted last year are being worked upon by Lewis S. Stone, the Oakland architect who is in charge of the plans.

THE UNGUARDED HOUR SHOWING AT CALIFORNIA

What would happen if a thimble full of poison was put in a woman's hand? This situation forms the unique theme of "The Unguarded Hour," which opened last night at the California Theatre. The picture is a story of the romance of a woman who is seduced by a man who is a doctor.

We will not spoil an excellent picture by telling you the story, but we will say that Miss Kenyon has the role of an Italian duke who has been seduced by a woman who is a doctor.

Miss Kenyon is admirably cast and carries you away with her comedy work, as well as her scenes of a highly dramatic type. She proves herself an extremely versatile young woman.

An excellent supporting cast has been chosen for this picture. Led by Frank, Charles King, Dolores Costello, Conchita Kiefer, Lorna Doane, Vivian Odell, and Charles Breen all show more than pleasing promise for their work.

Directed by Earl Hudson, "The Unguarded Hour" under the supervision of Earl Hudson, the picture is a masterpiece of its kind.

Other features include "Cuckoo Love," a comedy adapted from O. Henry's story "Hypothesis of Failure," "Prizma," the screen magazine.

Rhinelanders Not To Be Reconciled Says Famous Judge

(By Universal Service.)—MONTOSH, Feb. 17.—A reconciliation between Leonard Kip Rhinlander and his Negro bride, Alice Jones Rhinlander, is "utterly impossible," the judge of the former Judge Isaac S. Mills, Rhinlander's counsel during the young millionaire's recent courtship, said today.

Judge Mills, who is on a hunting and fishing expedition, said: "Nothing would surprise me after the truth between the Rhinlanders, but I would be amazed if the Rhinlanders became reconciled. Knowing young Rhinlander as I do, I would say it would be utterly impossible."

Judge Mills said that he is awaiting court action on his motion for a new trial of the case. He departs tonight for Mississippi, where he will visit for a week before returning to New York City.

Commerce No Bar To Art Professor At U. C. States

(By Universal Service.)—BERKELEY, Cal. Feb. 17.—A new defender of the American bad-ditt has been found in the Academic halls of the University of California, Berkeley, at what he calls "people who are so bored by the way they always want to see things done that they become perverse and devote their work to pointing out the only and terrible thing that the good will not see."

"America is full of artistic possibilities," in professor said, in his indictment of Sargent Lewis and others who have raised the American civilization as a machine.

"The Greek were fine traders and still are, and no one can deny their art. As for his machine, it might be the best for a thoroughly American art, for if you are going to have an art, you must first have a machine."

"Here in America an enormous activity that is near to art, it would be a true work of art, and it would be the best for a thoroughly American art, for if you are going to have an art, you must first have a machine."

"The sophisticated woman is the one who has read the latest books, seen the latest plays and is able to talk intelligently about them. She is also a woman who knows how to dress well—so that she is always charmingly gowned, but does not seem conscious of her clothing. She must know how to carry on an intelligent dinner conversation."

Man Is Fatally Stricken While At Whist Party

Frank Randall, well known employee of the Standard Oil company here, was suddenly stricken on Tuesday night, while acting as an announcer and auctioneer at a whist party and social that was held at the parish hall of Our Lady of Mercy church at Point Richmond.

That is, according to what Lew Cody, famous Beau Brummel of the screen, man 'about town, handsome lover of the movies, and modern Don Juan in general, tells us is the fashion today. The sweet young thing has of necessity bowed to the precedence of the sophisticated woman in man's affections.

"An air of sophistication," says Mr. Cody, who plays the leading role in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "King of the Kongs," "is woman's chief charm today. In fact, the naive ingenu must take a back seat before her."

"Sophistication, however, is a much misunderstood word," says Mr. Cody. "The average person and stands it to mean hard-boiled, while it is nothing of the sort. The sophisticated woman is the one who has read the latest books, seen the latest plays and is able to talk intelligently about them."

She is also a woman who knows how to dress well—so that she is always charmingly gowned, but does not seem conscious of her clothing. She must know how to carry on an intelligent dinner conversation."

Redwood to Last About 100 Years

(By Universal Service.)—SACRAMENTO, Cal. Feb. 17.—With the announcement that Redwood lumbering activities are reaching the stand of timber in California by approximately 10,000 acres annually and that more than 500,000 acres have already been cut over, deputy State Forester W. B. Rider estimated today the remaining virgin redwoods will last at this rate between 50 and 100 years.

The original redwood belt in California was 450 miles long and 20 miles wide, including 1,066,393 acres. Rider said the cut over area on the first of this year was 25,500 acres, leaving a redwood stand in the state of 881,293 acres.

Admits Rifling Of Chicken and Turkey Roosts

The manhunt by Alameda and Contra Costa county officials that started on Tuesday resulted in the arrest of M. C. Nordell at his home in Oakland, the detention of his wife as a witness and the directing of suspicious to several others in connection with the numerous thefts of chickens and turkeys from ranches in the San Ramon valley.

The manhunt was the result of the finding of a deserted Studebaker sedan near Livermore with a number of chickens in the trunk and blood-stains on the windshield.

According to deputy sheriff Dike Joslin, who aided Bert Reed of Danville and Pete Lynch of San Ramon in the hunt for the suspect of the chicken thefts, Nordell admitted the chicken and turkey thefts from the A. J. Young, Peterson, Walter Smith and Elmer Baldwin ranches.

The escape that led to the finding of the abandoned car and the arrest of Nordell occurred in the vicinity of Stockton on Monday night when pursuing officers fired several shots at the fleeing car, wounding one of the men. Nordell was taken to Stockton for trial.

ANTIOCH PLANS A LARGE HOTEL

ANTIOCH, Feb. 17.—Several important business projects were started at a meeting of the Antioch and Bridgehead sections of the East Contra Costa Chamber of Commerce, held last Tuesday night in the Women's Club building. The possibility of a large commercial hotel which was planned for, will be decided by a committee, authorized to investigate the situation. The committee will give its account before the organization some time next March.

An estimate on the cost of an industrial survey of the water front section from Bridgehead to a point between Pittsburg and Antioch, will be made by another committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Ben Blow, manager of the Victory Highway Association, was the speaker of the evening. His subject was on this trans continental highway. A committee was appointed after the speech to plan means whereby a marker of the Victory Highway is to be erected at the Contra Costa Terminal of the Sherman Island Bridge.

After a general discussion on the improvement of Antioch's municipal auto park, the committee in charge of the plans were instructed to proceed with their plans. M. B. Veale, chairman of the Antioch section of directors, presided over the meeting. A dinner given by the Antioch Women's Club, was given before the meeting.

Husband Wants Wife to Pay for Support of Child

(By Universal Service)
OAKLAND, Feb. 17.—Should a wife pay a husband for maintenance of their child?

That is the question the Superior court of Alameda county must decide, following filing of an action here by William Boyle, who asks the court to order his wife, Mrs. Susanna Boyle, to pay him a "reasonable amount" each month for support of their 3-year old child.

Mrs. Boyle, according to the action, is associated "with other persons in the sale of liquor" and thereby, the husband alleges has an income larger than his.

Pals and Companions Wanted in Husbands Today, Says Actress

Old Fashioned Worship of Wives by Husbands Now Taboo, Opines Aileen Pringle

AILEEN PRINGLE
M.G.M. PLAYER

What kind of men do women like? Do they like the suave man of the world who knows how to order a dinner and fasten a pair of gloves? Or do they like the sons of the great outdoors? Or do they like the chivalrous type of man who sets woman on a pedestal and worships her?

"It is easier," says the charming Aileen Pringle, M-G-M. player, who has recently completed "Soul Mates," an Elinor Glyn story "to tell what sort of man a woman does NOT like than what sort of man she admires. One thing is certain. Chivalry is passe. No woman wants to be placed on a pedestal and adored."

"Women want to be treated as companions. They want men to put them on an equal intellectual basis with themselves. Heretofore women have been treated in one of two ways, the Oriental or the medieval."

"The Oriental idea is that women should be secluded, the medieval concept was that they should be worshipped. Neither pleases a woman. But strange as it may seem, there are many men who believe in one of these ideas, in a modified form, of course.

"Women like men who treat them as equals, men who discuss with them events of vital importance without condescending to them. Though there may be a few women today who like to be treated like delicate Dresden china dolls, most modern women want pals and companions in husbands, not detached worshippers."

is in question, and after cruising about the bay for two nights and a day, finally landed the rest of the liquor at pier 56, in China Basin.

According to testimony made by three government agents, Armando Bonicors, one of the nine defendants, was arrested with 1,500 cases of beer, which he had loaded in three trucks. Although Bonicors was sitting in the courtroom, the witnesses were unable to identify him.

W. R. Botkin, one of the three agents, testified that at the time of arrest, he was offered two checks totalling $200 by Bonicors and signed by "Joe Parente" if he would "forget about this."

The two other agents were W. R. Paget and S. H. Sackett.

The case will be finished Friday and the defense will take less than two days. Attorneys agreed that the case will be in the jury's hands by next Wednesday.

classes of Aliens shall be excluded from admission into the United States... persons who have been convicted of or admit having committed a felony or other crime, or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude."

"The Alien admitted to the commission of such an offense, and that being the case her exclusion is mandatory under the practice of the department, which has prevailed since 1907, when the above provision was added to the general immigration law."

"During the past nineteen years considerable numbers of Aliens have been excluded under this provision for the admission of the same offense as in the instant case. Prior to the enactment of the immigration law of 1924 the government was obliged to sustain the burden of proof in cases of this nature, but since the act referred to became effective the burden of proof has been placed on the Alien applicant for admission, and in this respect the Alien did not produce any evidence to sustain her right to enter."

"It should be explained in considering immigration cases on appeal from boards of special inquiry at ports of arrival that the secretary of labor is bound to determine the question involved solely on the evidence submitted before such board and cannot exercise discretion. He can, and in this case has, considered legal arguments based on the law and the record, but he could not consider the extraneous influences from many sources urged for or against the admission of the Alien."

Sir Guy Gaunt, Member of British Parliament lost for One Year Is Found In Canada Under New Name

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 17.—The mystery surrounding the year's disappearance of Sir Guy Gaunt, breezy Tory member of parliament, was solved today by Universal Service.

Sir Guy, who had had a big career in British naval and diplomatic services, was found registered here at the Oak Bay hotel.

Registered in the same hotel is the lovely Lady Cruise, wife of Sir Richard Cruise, the King's Consul, who went journeying herself some time ago, causing friends much anxiety regarding her welfare and whereabouts.

Both are in charming spirits, excellent health, and seem to be enjoying the crisp wintry weather. At times they have been seen chatting together in a most vivacious manner.

Sir Guy, it was learned today, arrived here from the Orient last May on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada. He was entered on the passenger list at G. R. Gaunt.

By an odd coincidence, Lady Cruise also was a passenger on that vessel. She was registered as Miss Cruise. "Tis said, the two of them spent many charming hours on the way across the bounding billows, discussing matters of mutual interest."

Owing to a seamen's strike, the vessel was short-handed, and the rollicking Sir Guy—who was one of the social leaders of London—helped scrub the deck. "Miss Cruise" gave her moral support to this splendid act.

It'll be a long, long time before London sees Sir Guy again, if his present plans mature, for he is outfitting a yacht for a marvellous cruise among the romantic isles of the far Pacific.

Sir Guy purchased the vessel, "Eric," in Seattle, and had her brought here. Her name has been changed to "The Four Winds", and he has imported a crew of nineteen Chinese to man her.

He has outfitted her most luxurious power Diesel engines have converted into a series of charming salons and cabins. There is even a lounge with an open fireplace in it, two three hundred house-power diesel engines have been installed, and all stores have been placed on board.

Victoria today is asking: "When does Sir Guy—and any friends he may select—set sail?" Sir Guy doesn't say. "That's a little secret, however, he has spoken of his itinerary. He intends to sail far into the "White shadows of the South Seas," and from there the "Four Winds" will point her prow toward the ever-blue Mediterranean.

It is not believed that Sir Guy will touch at the British Isles for some time.

Lady Cruise—who has been absent from her husband in London many months—has been seen at the piers, viewing the majestic vessel with interest.

Both Sir Guy and "Miss Cruise" as the fellow-passengers knew here—are in excellent spirits.

When told tonight that the world of fashion was very much interested in his future plans, he said pleasantly:

"Really now, I don't believe the public needs to know them. Suppose you just say that this cruise will be for my health. One must keep in shape, you know, I shall go when I please, and stop when I please."

LOCAL PROMOTERS TO ASK PROBE OF BOXER WHO SAYS HE HAS FRACTURED A RIB

Jimmy Bartlett, the Vallejo welterweight, who is slated to meet Frankie Bray in the ten round main event of the Richmond Athletic club's semi-weekly fight show, has a badly fractured rib and will be unable to meet the Oaklander. That was the gist of a telephone message Matchmaker Harry Eabels received late yesterday, and drove the officials of the local fight club scurrying for a suitable substitute. They have lined up Mike O'Leary, Battling Manning, and Gilbert Attell, as substitutes, and as either of the above trio is a better fighter than the fragile Bartlett, the fight card of Friday's will be strengthened rather than weakened by the absence of Bartlett.

Matchmaker Harry Eabels and Sam Schomer, general manager of the Richmond Athletic club, are rather dubious about believing the fractured rib tale and will order the State Athletic Commission at Sacramento to order a complete investigation of Bartlett's injuries. "It looks like a run-out on Bartlett's part," declared Sam Schomer today. "Bray gave him a dickens of a fight in that San Francisco fight, and I guess Bartlett wasn't so anxious to fight him again. Bartlett's manager better have a doctor's certificate in Sacramento by tomorrow, if he doesn't want to have his boxer barred all over the state."

Eabels, however, was more optimistic. He declared Battling Manning, the New Orleans colored welterweight, and Frankie Bray will furnish a still better bout than that the Bartlett vs. Bray bout might have been. Manning defeated Gilbert Attell, Art Emery, Bobby Bridges and Jimmy Marcus in his only bouts in California and is a tearing, aggressive fighter, who, while short on fancy boxing, will make a tremendous hit here with fans who like a slugger. Eabels declared Battling Manning is another Battling Ortega in similarity in boxing style, and will gladly take a punch to land one of his own socks. He defeated Gilbert Attell in his last bout in San Francisco, at the National hall pavilion a month ago, and Attell is a welterweight of the first water.

Frankie Bray is training lustily at Oakland at the Imperial Athletic club, and when informed of the switch in his opponents, asked Matchmaker Eabels that he get the best opponent he could secure for him. "You can't get nowhere fighting saps," he declared.

Jimmy Valentino, the little New Yorker declared he will be in far better condition than last time out for his bout with George Spencer. Valentino took the Erie bout on a five days notice while this time he has had two weeks to condition himself for this bout.

Mickey Brown of Richmond will try to surprise every one by defeating Gene Ramos, the tough little Oakland Filipino. Ramos stopped Kid Morgan of Richmond in the first round on the last show, while Brown defeated Pal Bavatto of Crockett via the decision route.

Doctors Do This

Doctors are prescribing a new discovery for constipation, impure blood and bowel indigestion. To millions they are bringing with it quick and remarkable results. It is a gland secretion, derived from beef livers, it stimulates the flow of bile-up to an antiseptic. Modern research proves that cathartics never do that. That flow of bile floods the bowels and keeps them open. The results come over night. It combats intestinal germs which feed the poisons to the blood. For bile is an antiseptic. It corrects bowel indigestion, for bile is a digestant. Countless people are getting in this way quick and amazing help in many ill conditions. Your doctor, if you consult him, will probably prescribe it to you. This new discovery is one of the marvels of modern medicine. Or you can get this liver gland secretion in Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents ten drops. "Clip this advertisement. Take it to our Special Agent, La Moine Drug Co., and he will give you a liberal sample of Dioxol free."

Women's Golf Tournament On At Del Monte

(By Universal Service)

DEL MONTE, Cal. Feb. 17.—Miss Marion Hollins, of New York, today won her chances of winning the annual Public Beach championship for women for the fourth time by defeating Mrs. M. J. Campbell, of Los Angeles, today when her most formidable opponent, Mrs. J. M. Van Antwerp, of New York, was defeated by Mrs. M. J. Campbell.

The result of today's matches was startling in the best of many had picked Mrs. M. J. Campbell and Mrs. J. M. Van Antwerp as the two finalists. Believing that Mrs. J. M. Van Antwerp would have been the victor, Mrs. M. J. Campbell, of Los Angeles, should they meet on the semi-finals. And over the past triumph of Mrs. M. J. Campbell, Mrs. J. M. Van Antwerp, who had been picked as the player to defeat Mrs. J. M. Van Antwerp, 3 and 1.

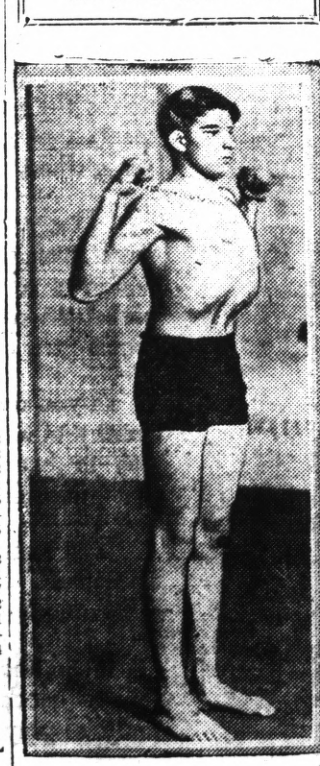

Mrs. Frank Shedy played nervously, courageous golf today. From the very start she played every shot as though the outcome of the match depended on that one shot and at the turn she was 2 up on the British Columbia title. To accomplish this she turned the first nine in 42 strokes as against the 10 played by Mrs. Hollins. Mrs. Hollins, who had been expected to play and her defeat proved a great disappointment to her.

Miss Marion Hollins, former national champion, today hit the hole in the 18th hole for the first time in her career. She had been playing for the title since 1922-23-24, is playing her first tournament golf since her marriage to the president of the California Golf Association nearly two years ago. She played indifferent golf in the qualifying round of this tournament but today she fought a grand uphill battle to overcome a two hole lead held by Mrs. Jones at the seventh hole.

The final score gave Mrs. Campbell victory, 2 and 1, and as she played on the last hole, Mrs. Campbell's score of 85 gives a good indication of the type of golf she played today and the type of golf that may reasonably be expected of her tomorrow. She will give her good friends, Mrs. C. W. Van Antwerp, of San Francisco, plenty of competition in the semi-finals tomorrow.

Mrs. Van Antwerp is playing perhaps the finest brand of golf she has yet exhibited on the Pebble Beach links. Today she showed Mrs. N. H. McManis, of Schenectady, New York, 4 and 5. And her golf was good enough to lead many to believe that she will tomorrow defeat Mrs. Campbell.

"Buffalo" Prince, Indian Youth, Winning Fame As An All-Round Athlete

Stanley ("Buffalo") Pierce, 16-year-old Onondaga Indian, is a first cousin of Bemis and Hawley, famous Carlisle football players, and a close relative of two other Carlisle stars. This young red skin is a 6-footer and weighs 175 pounds. Already in his high school days at Syracuse, N. Y., Pierce has created a sensation on the gridiron and he is so good as basketball and wrestling that he was made captain of those teams. His ability at throwing the discus has also attracted attention and it is being predicted that he will be the successor of the great Jim Thorpe.

CAGERS HOLD PEP MEETING BEFORE GAME

A pep meeting preparatory to the Berkeley game, was held yesterday by the unlimited and 130 pound basketball teams of the Richmond high school. Coach Ivan W. Hill addressed the boys and told them what a stiff battle they have ahead of them when they meet the Berkeley high school team here tomorrow night. Hill told the boys that this was the first time in a number of years that they have played the Berkeley team in any sport and that they face a tough battle for the College city team has walloped some of the best teams about the bay.

Richard Paasch, star running guard on the 1925 basketball team gave a talk and told the two squads that the team this year has shown team work worthy of the best of teams. Paasch declared that the team was the best that the local high school has put out in a number of years.

Carroll Pitchford, another member of '25 told the boys that if they fought as hard and as well as they have been doing in the past games there will be no doubt that the boys will come through with a win.

Hill announced that Referee A. F. Veale of the Berkeley Y. M. C. A. will officiate at the game. Veale is one of the best referees about San Francisco bay and is known throughout the bay regions as a most impartial referee. "Veale calls them!" This is the tribute paid by the local boys. An announcement was also made that the people who wish to see the game must come early for immediately after the gymnasium bleachers is filled no more people will be admitted. The doors open at 6:30 o'clock.

Doc Seawright, coach of the junior high school teams, has announced that the last time the Richmond boys played Berkeley, which was in 1915, that he was coach for the Berkeley squad.

Coach Hill will use his first team in the line up tomorrow night.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17.—Favorites came through successfully in every instance in the first round of match play in the women's Florida championship golf tournament.

An interesting sidelight was the triumph of Mrs. Richards C. Payson, of Portland, Me., and her two daughters, the Misses Helen and Emma. Nam, by 5 up and 2 to play. Miss Dorothy Klotz, holder of the course record of 77, took a 42-44-38, and was hard pressed to defeat Miss Helen Seitz, of New Rochelle, 2 and 1.

Inter-Advisory Basketball At The High School

Marking the beginning of a series of inter-advisory basketball games to be played each week, at the local high school, a game was played yesterday morning between Miss Grace Dot's advisory and Miss Ella Eabels's advisory with the result of 5-1, in favor of the latter.

High point man for the winning team was John "Toodles" Dalton while Irving "Plug" McKee was high point man for the losers. McKee scored the one and only point of the vanquished and saved the day for his team which would have been "whitewashed."

The game was marked with thrills and excitement, with "Plug" in the midst of all the play. The chief advantage of the winners was in the greater playing ability of the players. The next game played will be on Wednesday of the following week. The games will all be staged in the high school gymnasium.

PULLMAN AND McRACKEN FIVE TO PLAY TUES.

The last game of the Richmond Basketball league will be played off Tuesday night when the champion Pullman team meets the McRacken quintet in a practice game at the Roosevelt Junior high school.

The Pullman team was only defeated once, and the McRacken team was the team that trounced them.

Tuesday's game will show whether they can repeat or not.

Four Knockouts In Vallejo Bouts

VALLEJO, Feb. 17.—Frankie Farren of San Francisco knocked out Johnny Reno of Los Angeles in the fifth round of their ten round bout here tonight. Farren had knocked Reno down for a nine count previous to the knockout in the game round. Reno outfought Farren the first two rounds, but Farren began to wear him down at the beginning of the third.

Bombs Chevalier knocked out Al Young in the second round of their four round bout. Buddy Ryan won a four round decision over Joe King. Kid Adirinson knocked out George Stone in the second round of a four round bout. Elvin McCray knocked out Roy Moore in the second round of a four round go. Mike Denton shaded Cyclone Hickey in four rounds.

OFFICIALS GIVE MISS WILLS A DAY OF REST

(By Universal Service)

BEAULIEU, France, Feb. 17.—The two matches which Helen Wills, the American tennis queen, was scheduled to play in the Beaulieu tournament, which opened here today were postponed until tomorrow by the court management. The officials, realizing the strain which yesterday's strenuous match with Suzanne Lenglen had put upon the industrious champion, thought another busy day on the courts would be asking too much of her.

It has been some time since the world's champion has had to extend herself in defense of her title as she did yesterday and she is resting at her home in Nice today.

With the greatly ballyhooed initial meeting of the two champions now a matter of history, court fans are looking forward eagerly to the next court battle. If both of the players follow their present plans this will take place about March 8, in the Nice tournament.

When asked about a return match with Helen Wills, Suzanne replies: "I will play in the singles at Nice and Helen may enter." The American champion remarked with her characteristic brevity, "I will follow out the tennis schedule I have planned." This schedule calls for her participation in the Nice singles.

There are many factors however which may delay this second meeting as the first was delayed. Nice for one thing has a fondness for the grooved ball to which Miss Wills is openly averse.

Pride is equal in all men; the only difference is the means and manner of displaying it.

Women's Single Tennis Matches Too Tiring; May Be Banned On The Riviera During Next Season

By C. F. BERTELLI (By Universal Service)

PARIS, Feb. 17.—Whether women's singles will be allowed on the Riviera next season seems problematic today. The feeling of enthusiasm at the magnificent performance of Helen Wills against Suzanne Lenglen yesterday no sooner cooled than widespread criticism was heard all along the Riviera, especially among society leaders.

The Duke of Connaught was but one of the many titled persons who stayed away from the historic match on the ground that tennis as well as womanhood is being debased by the manner in which the fair contestants are required to fight until exhausted, like pugilists or gladiators.

This aspect of the case has become the general topic of conversation since yesterday's contest.

"At the end of the second set both girls were like staggering, croaky boxers," said the Duchess of Vendome, of the Royal Orleanist House, who is undisputed leader of Riviera society. "It was the nearest thing to women in the boxing ring that I can imagine, and I do not wish to see such a spectacle again. There is something radically wrong in allowing young women to reduce themselves to such pitiable wrecks for the edification of thousands of male onlookers."

Other famous people of the sporting and social world agree that measures must be taken to prevent girl players battling with such savagery that both finish gasping, with agonized features, and on the verge of collapse.

That she was several times blinded by weakness has already been admitted by Suzanne in talking to friends, while silent Helen went to the length of admitting that she once thought her heart was about to cease beating—this was when she leaned momentarily on her racket only to be sternly summoned to attention by the serving of her opponent.

On the other hand tennis experts are pessimistic about the possibility of restraining girl players from bitter and exhausting attacks such as were witnessed yesterday. On the contrary, they foretell that scenes infinitely more distressing than yesterday's match are sure to take place in London and Paris later on in the season now that the public attitude is whetted by the fact that Mlle. Lenglen's long dominion is nearing eclipse before the oncoming California maiden and that tennis may soon develop to positively amazonian heights of physical and nervous endurance.

Simultaneously with the above criticism it was revealed today that Suzanne has decided to abandon the court altogether and get married directly after she meets defeat. According to an intimate friend, in fact, Mlle. Lenglen is about to announce her engagement to Charles Wifen, American resident of Nice, who two years ago gained notoriety as a "dentist sheik", a charge made against him by the husband of "the woman in the case" after an exciting chase across the Atlantic, ending in Paris.

Wifen, who is a handsome man of the southern type, has been spending much of his time at the Lenglen Villa at Nice, and is seen everywhere with her.

Suzanne's friends assert that this is genuine love match, as distinct from previously rumored nonsense allying the French woman champion with Count Salm, the Duke of Westminster and other prominent tennis fans.

Baby Saved From Heart Trouble

Myrtle steadily grew worse. Her heart beat rapidly and noisily, she had but little blood, and the pallor of her face was like the whiteness of a sheet of paper. She finally became so weak that she could neither walk nor eat.

Some doctors thought it might be her teeth, but they had all come through and she was getting worse every day.

We were recommended to see Fong Wan. He found that she was suffering from heart trouble. She has taken the Fong Wan Herbs for three months and is in fine health.

OREGON PRISON RIOT QUELLED

(By Universal Service)

Daughter of Famous Singer In Will Fight

(By Universal Service)
BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 17.—Judge Eli Frank today has under consideration arguments on a demurrer in the case of Mrs. Maria Theresa Hilgartner, Los Angeles, daughter of Mme. Schumann-Heink, the singer, who has brought action in the courts here for an interpretation of the will of her husband, Charles E. Hilgartner.

The suit has been brought on behalf of her two children, Hubert Passano Guy and Charlotte Schumann-Heink Guy, and involves about $100,000.

The case came before the court on a demurrer. The litigation involves the income from shares of stock owned by the late Mr. Hilgartner in the Hilgartner Marble company of Baltimore and Los Angeles.

The will provided that Mrs. Hilgartner should receive for life one-half of the income from this stock. Mrs. Hilgartner, upon her husband's death, renounced this provision of the will in her favor and elected to take her dower right of one-third of the estate absolutely.

The question to be decided is whether this renunciation accelerated the operation of a trust created by her husband's will and whether the income in question should be divided one-half to her two children by a former marriage and one half to her husband's son by a former marriage. Mr. Hilgartner was divorced several years before he married Mme. Schumann-Heink's daughter in 1923.

Judge Refuses To Charge Men With Murder

said, and will later publicly announce the decision.

Judge Urias has refused to indict any of the men for murder. Those to be punished are:

Luis Amador, the saloonkeeper, Zenaido Llanos, chief of police of Tia Juana, accused of assault. Refugio Alvarez, bartender at Amador's place, alleged to have served the drugged liquor.

Francisco Gonzales, Tia Juana policeman, accused of assault. Salvador Espinosa, chauffeur whose car was used in kidnapping the Petet girls, was adjudged guilty of stealing an automobile and will receive a lesser sentence, it is reported. The remaining two defendants, Juan Sang, Chinese hotel proprietor in whose establishment one of the girls was attacked and Francisco Navarro, another bartender, were acquitted.

Attorney Bush declared that the Mexican authorities have arranged to close the border from 6 p. m. to 8 a. m. each day in order to prevent future outrages and to protect visitors to Tia Juana.

Flapper Good At Studies Report Of State Shows

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 17.—For all her seeming devotion to slinky hosiery, abbreviated skirts, cosmetics and other fables of fashion, the California flapper is seriously devoting herself to education, and state records made public today show that in all but seven of the state's fifty-eight counties she leads the boys of her age in years given over to schooling.

This estimate of the flapper's attitude toward education is based on the graduation of 21,243 students from California high schools last term and statistics showing that in every metropolitan area and in most of the agricultural districts more girls than boys went through the entire secondary school course.

"Without question," said Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, "the average California girl devotes a longer period to education than the average boy." There were 12,622 girl graduates from the high schools in 1925 as against only 9,962 boys. The flapper's education was outnumbered only in seven mountain and farming counties—Calaveras, El Dorado, Imperial, Sutter, Napa, Tuolumne and Ventura.

Motorman In Wreck Says He "Couldn't Stop Train"

to release him, there was considerable argument between Attorney Peter Dunne for the Key System and Attorney J. L. Steinhart for the Sacramento Short Line as to whether or not the motorman was in the cab at the time of the accident or if he jumped.

Each company is trying to shift the responsibility upon the other company; the Short Line contending that the moment that the cars entered upon the pier they were under the jurisdiction of the Key System while the Key declares that the Short Line is responsible for the actions of its men.

Brubecker was questioned by Dunne in an effort to show that he was changing from his overalls to civilian clothes as he entered the tunnel in preparation of a visit to San Francisco. Brubecker declares that he had made the change during a 45 second stop at the tower near the pier approach. He was supported by other witnesses.

Steinhart declared that Brubecker's eyeglasses were found in the cab after the accident, proof that he was in the cab at the time.

Although Brubecker's car plowed through the Key car fifteen feet, Brubecker escaped with a cut over the eye and wounds on the hands.

Insisting that the block system was in the hands of the Key System, and that they had control of the signals, A. J. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of the Short Line declared that the Short Line had never inspected them. He admitted that his trainmaster hired and discharged the men but explained in Brubecker's dismissal that the order first came from the Key System.
